

Navigate Newborn Screening

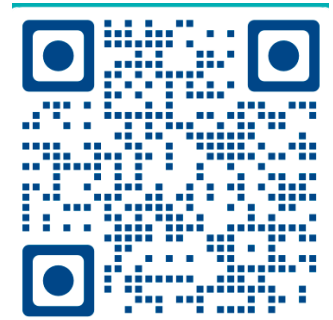

An Expecting Health Program

Newborn screening is more than just a screen at birth. It is a complex system with many stakeholders. We believe families are integral to driving system change and supporting positive family experiences within the newborn screening system. The Newborn Screening Family Education Program (Navigate Newborn Screening) is dedicated to developing opportunities for all families to learn about newborn screening and developing training and educational resources that build confidence for families to become leaders in the newborn screening system. Use the following QR codes to access and share our resources with families!

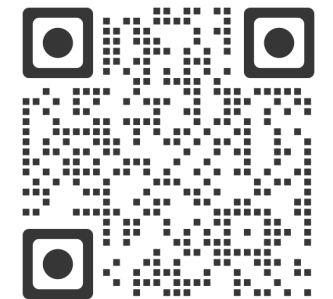

Navigate NBS Resource Toolkit

This toolkit includes several resources created for families as they navigate different aspects of their newborn screening journey. Inside you will find social media graphics for sharing, online training curriculums, video education, and tips on sharing your newborn screening story!

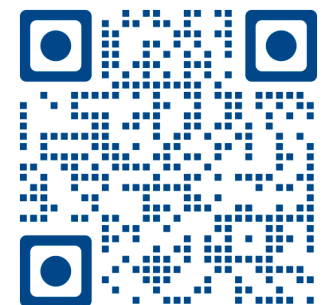

A Learning Book for Expecting Families

Read this short, introductory digital flipbook to learn more about newborn screening prior to delivery. We encourage you to share it with any expecting families you know so that they can be as prepared as possible before newborn screening happens.

An Educational Video for Families

Watch and share this video to learn more about what families experience during the newborn screening process and how to best support families through the challenging time of an out-of-range newborn screening result.

To learn more about our program or to get involved, please contact Marianna Raia, MS, CGC at mraia@expectinghealth.org